

Do you have these household items?

Looking through my pantry I found some cornstarch. Did you know that by mixing equal parts of cornstarch and water you can create an awesome science experiment? It's called oobleck! Tell us whether you think oobleck is a liquid or a solid!

If you have questions or would like more ideas for activities you can do at home with children, please call 315-446-1220 to talk with a staff member or check out our Facebook page.

